Fundamental Law of Hungary(25 April 2011)¹God Bless Hungary!*NATIONAL COMMITMENT AND BELIEF²

WE THE PEOPLE OF THE HUNGARIAN NATION, at the dawn of a new millennium declare the following with a bond of duty to all Hungarians:

We are proud to declare that one thousand years ago our first king, Saint Stephen, set the Hungarian State on solid foundations, and made our country a part of Christian Europe.

We are proud of our ancestors for having fought for the survival, freedom and independence of our country.

We are proud of the outstanding intellectual achievements of the Hungarian people.

We are proud to declare that our nation fought in defense of Europe throughout the centuries and, by means of its ability and diligence, has contributed to the enrichment of the common European heritage.

We acknowledge the role of Christianity in preserving our nation. We respect all religious traditions that may exist within our country.

We are committed to preserve the intellectual and spiritual unity of our nation, torn apart by the storms of the past century. We declare that we consider the nationalities and ethnic groups living in Hungary to be integral parts of the Hungarian political community.³

We pledge to treasure and preserve our heritage: our unique language, the Hungarian culture, the languages and cultural heritage of ethnic groups living in Hungary, and the man-made and natural riches of the Carpathian Basin. We bear responsibility for our descendants; we shall therefore strive to use our material, intellectual and natural resources prudently so as to protect the living conditions of future generations.

We believe that our national culture constitutes a rich contribution to the diversity of a unified Europe.

We respect the freedom and culture of other peoples, and shall endeavor to live in harmony with all nations of the world.

We assert that human dignity is the foundation of human life.

We proclaim that individual freedom can only flourish in partnership with others.

We proclaim that family and nation are the cornerstones of co-existence, with loyalty, faith and love constituting the principal values of unity.

We proclaim that the strength of a community and the self-esteem of every human being are based on work and the achievements of the human intellect.

We proclaim that we are duty-bound to help the vulnerable and the poor.

We profess that the common goal of the people and the State is to achieve well-being, security, order, justice and liberty.

We proclaim that true democracy exists only where the State serves its citizens and administers their affairs justly and without abuse or bias.

We honor the accomplishments of our historical Constitution and the Holy Crown, which embodies the constitutional continuity of Hungary and national unity.

We proclaim that protecting our identity, as it is rooted in our historical Constitution, is a fundamental duty of the State.

We refuse to recognize the suspension of our historical Constitution that occurred on the strength of foreign occupation. We do not accept any statutory limitation of the inhuman crimes committed against the Hungarian nation and its citizens under the national socialist and communist

² Amended by Article 1 of Seventh Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary.

³ Amended: by subparagraph a) paragraph (1) Article 21 of the Fourth Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary. In force: as of 01. 04. 2013.

dictatorship.⁴

We refuse to recognize the communist constitution of 1949 and hence declare it to be invalid, for it laid the foundations for tyranny.

We agree with the members of the first freely-elected Parliament, whose first resolution declares that our freedom derived from the Revolution of 1956.

We declare that the self-determination of our State, lost on 19 March 1944, was restored on 2 May 1990 with the formation of our first freely-elected representative body. We also consider this day to be the beginning of a new democracy and constitutional order for our nation.

We proclaim that, after the decades leading to moral ruin in the twentieth century, our need for spiritual and intellectual renewal is paramount.

We trust in a future we can build together, as well as in the devotion of younger generations. We believe that our children and grandchildren - through their ability, perseverance and moral strength - will re-establish the reputation of Hungary.

Our Fundamental Law shall be the basis of our legal system. It shall serve as an alliance of Hungarians of the past, present and the future. It is a living embodiment of the nation's will, an expression of the ideals by which we collectively aspire to live.⁵

We, the citizens of Hungary, are ready to found the order of our country upon the collective efforts of our nation.

to two-thirds majority of the Members of Parliament present.

Article U¹⁹

(1) The form of government based on the rule of law for making public policy, established by the will of the nation upon the first free elections in 1990 and the previous communist dictatorship are irreconcilable. The Magyar Szocialista Munkáspárt (Hungarian Socialist Workers' Party) and its predecessors, and all other political organizations set up in their service under the communist ideology were criminally charged organizations whose leaders are interminably responsible:

- a) for running a system of oppression and despotism, for the criminal acts they have committed, and for betraying the nation;
- b) for purging all democratic attempts after World War II for a multi-party political system, relying on the military might of Soviet Union;
- c) for building a legal order based on exclusive authority and illegitimacy;
- d) for eliminating an economy resting on the freedom of ownership and for bankrupting the country through indebtedness;
- e) for subordinating the economy, national defense, diplomacy and human resources of Hungary to foreign powers;
- f) for the systematic destruction of European civilization, legacy and prominence;
- g) for depriving the people or certain groups of citizens of their basic human rights, or grossly curtailing such rights, in particular for murdering people, for selling them out to foreign powers, for their unlawful incarceration, deportation to forced labor camps, torture and inhuman treatment; for indiscriminately depriving the people of their wealth and possessions, for censorship of their property rights; for depriving the people of all freedom rights and liberties, for exerting central control on political activities such as the freedom of expression of their political will; for the discrimination of people on the basis of race, worldview or political conviction, and for blocking their progression and advancement on the basis of knowledge, sedulity and talent; for setting up and maintaining a secret police force for the surveillance of people, for unlawfully invading the people's right to privacy and for asserting influence upon them;
- h) for crushing the Hungarian Revolution and Uprising of 1956 in collaboration with the Soviet invasion forces, and for the ensuing terror, persecution and retaliatory actions, and for forcing two hundred thousand Hungarians to flee their homeland;
- i) for all of the politically motivated common criminal acts they committed, and which for political reasons were not prosecuted by the judicial system.

The political organizations legally recognized in the process of the democratic transition as the successors of Magyar Szocialista Munkáspárt share the responsibility of their predecessors, being the heirs of the wealth they had amassed unlawfully.

(2) In light of what is contained in Paragraph (1), the communist dictatorship is to be exposed clearly and truthfully, and the veracity of the people is to be satisfied in accordance with Paragraphs (3)-(10).

(3) The Nemzeti Emlékezet Bizottsága (National Memorial Commission) will be established in order to preserve the memory of the communist dictatorship at the State level. The Nemzeti Emlékezet Bizottsága shall investigate the functioning of the communist dictatorship and the role of individuals and organizations, which held the powers of the communist regime, and shall publish the results of its findings in an extensive report and other documents.

(4) Those in power under the communist dictatorship shall perforce tolerate public statements regarding their role and acts related to the functioning of the communist regime, with the exception of deliberate and essentially untrue statements; their personal data in relation to these roles and acts may be made public.

(5) The pension or other allowances of communist leaders defined by law, granted by the State based on the relevant legislation, may be reduced to a degree specified by an act of Parliament. The revenues from such reduction shall be used according to the relevant legislation for alleviating the injuries caused by the communist dictatorship and preserving the memory of its victims.

(6) The serious crimes defined by law, committed against Hungary or against individuals in the name or in the interest of the single-party state, or with its consent during the communist dictatorship, which were not prosecuted for political reasons through the oversight of penal law in effect at the time when the crime was committed shall not be considered statute-barred.

(7) The statute of limitation for crimes defined in Paragraph (6) begins at the time the Fundamental Law entered into force and lasts in accordance with the criminal laws in effect at the time the crime was committed, provided that the statute of limitation would have expired before 1 May 1990 under the criminal law in effect at the time the crime was committed.

(8) If, under the laws in effect at the time the crime was committed, the statute of limitation for crimes defined in Paragraph (6) expired between 2 May 1990 and 31 December 2011, and the crime was not prosecuted, the statute of limitation begins at the time the Fundamental Law entered into force and expires after the period equal to the period between the date when the crime was committed and 1 May 1990.

(9) No legislation may be adopted for establishing new grounds for compensation with a view to providing pecuniary or other form of benefits to persons unlawfully deprived of their lives or freedom for political reasons, or to persons having suffered undue damage caused by the State before 2 May 1990.

(10) The documents of the communist state party, of societal and youth organs created with the active participation of or directly controlled by, the communist state party, and of trade unions are now considered as State property, and as such, shall be placed in public archives, similar to documents comprising a part of the archives of bodies with public service functions.

FREEDOMS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Article I

(1) Inviolable and inalienable human rights shall be respected. It shall be the primary obligation of the State to protect these rights.

(2) Hungary shall recognize the fundamental human rights, exercised either individually or collectively with other members of the community.

(3) The rules relating to fundamental rights and obligations shall be laid down in an act of Parliament. A fundamental right may only be restricted in order to enforce another fundamental right or to protect a constitutional value, to the extent that is absolutely necessary and proportionate to the objective pursued, and with respect to the essential content of the relevant fundamental right.

(4) Legal entities established on the basis of an act of Parliament shall also have these fundamental rights, and they shall also be bound by those obligations which, by their nature, are applicable not only to human beings.

Article II

Human dignity shall be inviolable. Everyone shall have the right to life and human dignity; the life of the fetus shall be protected from the moment of conception.

Article III

(1) No one shall be subjected to torture, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, or be held in servitude. Trafficking in human beings shall be prohibited.

(2) Under no circumstances shall anyone be subjected to medical or scientific experiment without his or her free and informed consent.

(3) Practices aimed at eugenics, making the human body and its parts as such a source of financial gain, and human cloning shall be prohibited.

Article IV

(1) Everyone shall have the right to freedom and personal security.

(2) No one shall be deprived of his or her freedom, except on the grounds and in accordance with the procedures specified by an act of Parliament. A sentence of life imprisonment without parole may only be imposed for violent intentional crimes.

(3) Any individual suspected of having committed a criminal offence and held in detention shall either be released or shall be brought before a court within the shortest possible period of time. The court shall be required to give the detained individual a hearing and shall make a decision, with the grounds stated in writing, to either release the individual or place him or her under arrest without undue delay.

(4) Any person whose freedom has been wrongly or unlawfully restricted shall be entitled to appropriate compensation.

Article V

Everyone has the right - in accordance with the law - to use reasonable force to protect his or her person or property from imminent bodily harm or against the peril with which he or she is threatened at the hands of an aggressor.

Article VI²⁰

(1) Everyone shall have the right to respect for his or her private and family life, home, communications and reputation. Exercising the freedom of expression and the freedom of assembly shall not result in violating the private and family life, and the home of others.

(2) The State provides legal protection for the sanctity of the home.

(3) Everyone shall have the right to the protection of his or her personal data, as well as to have access to and disseminate information of public interest.

(4) An independent authority created by means of a cardinal law shall supervise the protection of personal data and the granting of the right of access to data of public interest.

Article VII

(1) Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right includes freedom to change religion or belief and freedom, either alone or in community with others and in public or in private, to manifest religion or belief through religious acts or ceremonies, or in any other way, in worship, teaching, practice and observance.

(2)²¹ People of the same faith or religious belief shall be entitled to establish religious communities in an organizational form provided for in the relevant implementing act in which to practice their religion.

(3)²² In Hungary the State and religious communities shall be separated. Religious communities shall be independent entities.

(4)²³ The State and religious communities may collaborate for the public interest. Such cooperation shall be decided by Parliament, upon the religious community's request. The cooperating religious community shall function as a listed church. The State shall grant special licenses to listed churches having regard to their participation in tasks aiming to achieve certain goals in the public interest.

(5)²⁴ The common rules relating to the religious communities, the conditions of collaboration, listed churches and the detailed regulations pertaining to them shall be laid down in an implementing act.

Article VIII

(1) Everyone shall have the right to freedom of peaceful assembly.

(2) Everyone shall have the right to establish or join organizations.

(3) Political parties may be established and may operate freely on the basis of the right to freedom of assembly. Political parties shall participate in the formation and expression of the will of the people.

²⁰ Established by Article 4 of Seventh Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary, effective as of 29 June 2018.

²¹ Established: by paragraph (1) Article 1 of the Fifth Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary. In force: as of 1. 10. 2013.

²² Established: by paragraph (1) Article 1 of the Fifth Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary. In force: as of 1. 10. 2013.

²³ Established: by paragraph (1) Article 1 of the Fifth Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary. In force: as of 1. 10. 2013.

²⁴ Enacted: by paragraph (2) Article 1 of the Fifth Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary. In force: as of 1. 10. 2013.

Political parties may not directly exercise executive powers.

(4) The detailed rules for the operation and financial management of political parties shall be laid down in an implementing act.

(5) Trade unions and other interest groups may be established and may operate freely on the basis of the right to freedom of assembly.

Article IX

(1) Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression.

(2) Hungary shall recognize and protect the freedom and diversity of the press, and shall ensure the conditions for the freedom to receive and impart information as is necessary in a democratic society.

(3)²⁵ In the interest of information related to the formation of public opinion in a democratic way during an election campaign period, political advertisement may be published in media services free of any consideration according to the requirements laid down in the relevant implementing act with the aim of promoting equal opportunity.

(4)²⁶ Exercising the freedom of expression and opinion cannot be aimed at violating other persons' human dignity.

(5)²⁷ Exercising the freedom of expression and opinion cannot be aimed at violating the dignity of the Hungarian nation or the dignity of any national, ethnic, racial or religious group. Members of such groups are entitled to bring action before the court - as defined by law - against any statement considered injurious to the group alleging violation of their human dignity.

(6)²⁸ The detailed rules relating to the freedom of the press and to the supervision of media services, press products and the communications market shall be laid down in an implementing act.

Article X

(1) Hungary shall protect the freedom of scientific research and artistic expression, as well as the freedom of learning and - within the framework defined by law - teaching so as to attain the highest level of knowledge possible.

(2) The State shall not be entitled to decide on questions of scientific fact. Only scientists shall be entitled to evaluate scientific research.

In the event of a tie for first place in the first round, the nominees having received the highest number of votes may stand in the second round. In the event of a tie for second place in the first round, the nominees having received the two highest number of votes may stand in the second round. In the second round, the nominee receiving the highest number of valid votes - regardless of the number of voters - shall be elected President of the Republic. If the second round of voting is declared unsuccessful as well, a new election shall be held on the basis of new nominations.

(5) The election procedure shall be completed within a period of no more than two consecutive days.

(6) The President-elect of the Republic shall take office upon expiry of the previous President's mandate, or, if the previous President's mandate terminated prematurely, on the eighth day following the announcement of the result of the election; prior to taking office the President of the Republic shall take an oath before Parliament.

Article 12

(1) The person of the President of the Republic shall be inviolable.

(2) The office of President of the Republic shall be incompatible with all other state, social, economic or political offices or mandates. The President of the Republic shall not be otherwise gainfully employed and shall not accept remuneration for other activities, with the exception of such activities as are protected by copyright.

(3) The mandate of the President of the Republic shall terminate:

a) upon completion of his term of office;

b) upon death;

c) if unable to fulfil his duties for a period of more than ninety days;

d) if the requirements for his election are no longer satisfied;

- e) upon declaration of incompatibility;
- f) upon resignation;
- g) upon removal from the office of President of the Republic.

(4) Parliament shall decide upon having to declare the President of the Republic unable to fulfil his duties for a period of more than ninety days and on his failure to comply with the requirements for election, and also upon the declaration of incompatibility with a majority of two-thirds of the votes of the Members of Parliament present.

(5)⁵³ The detailed rules for the legal status of the President of the Republic, including former presidents, as well as his remuneration shall be laid down in an implementing act.

Article 13

(1) Criminal proceedings against the President of the Republic may be initiated only after the expiry of his term in office.

(2)⁵⁴ Impeachment proceedings against a President of the Republic for any willful infringement of the Fundamental Law, or violating any other law while in office, or for committing an intentional criminal offense may be initiated by one-fifth of all Members of Parliament.

(3) A majority of two-thirds of the votes of all Members of Parliament shall be required for the opening of impeachment proceedings. Voting shall be held by secret ballot.

(4) The President of the Republic may not exercise his powers from the time of Parliament having passed the resolution for the opening of impeachment proceedings, until the conclusion of the proceedings.

(5) The Constitutional Court shall have competence to carry out the impeachment proceedings.

(6) If, as a result of its proceedings the Constitutional Court finds the President of the Republic guilty as charged, it may remove the President of the Republic from office.

Article 14

(1) In the event that the President of the Republic is temporarily prevented from attending to his duties, or if President's mandate terminates, the Speaker of Parliament shall exercise the powers of the President of the Republic until the newly elected President takes office.

(2) The temporary inability of the President of the Republic to fulfil his duties shall be declared by Parliament upon the initiative of the President of the Republic, the Government or any Member of Parliament.

(3) While acting on behalf of the President of the Republic, the Speaker of Parliament may not exercise his or her duties as a Member of Parliament, and his or her duties as Speaker of Parliament shall be attended to by the Deputy Speaker of Parliament designated by the Parliament.

The Government

Article 15

(1) The Government is the general means of executive power; its tasks and competencies shall encompass all that is not expressly conferred by the Fundamental Law or any other legislation under the competence of another body. The Government shall answer to Parliament.

(2) The Government shall be the principal organ of public administration; it may establish government agencies pursuant to provisions laid down by law.

(3) In the performance of its duties, the Government shall adopt decrees in matters not regulated by an act of Parliament, or under authorization given by an act of Parliament.

(4) Government decrees may not be contrary to any act of Parliament.

Article 16

⁵³ Amended: by paragraph (2) Article 1 of the First Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary. In force: as of 19. 06. 2012.

⁵⁴ Amended: by subparagraph n) paragraph (1) Article 21 of the Fourth Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary. In force: as of 01. 04. 2013. The change does not effect the English version.

- (1) The members of the Government shall be the Prime Minister and the ministers.
- (2) The Prime Minister shall appoint one or more deputy prime ministers from among the ministers by means of a decree.
- (3) The Prime Minister shall be elected by Parliament on a recommendation by the President of the Republic.
- (4) A simple majority of votes cast by Members of Parliament shall be required to elect the Prime Minister. The Prime Minister shall take office immediately upon his or her election.
- (5) The President of the Republic shall make the recommendation referred to in Paragraph (3):
 - a) at the constitutive sitting of the new Parliament, if the mandate of the Prime Minister has ended with the formation of a newly-elected Parliament;
 - b) within a period of fifteen days from the termination of the mandate of the Prime Minister, if such termination is due to the Prime Minister's resignation from office, his or her death, the declaration of a conflict of interest, non-compliance with the conditions required for his or her election, or upon the Parliament having passed a vote of no confidence in respect of the Prime Minister.
- (6) If the Parliament fails to elect the person proposed for the office of Prime Minister under Paragraph (5), the President of the Republic shall make a new recommendation within fifteen days.
- (7) Ministers shall be appointed by the President of the Republic upon recommendation by the Prime Minister. Ministers shall take office on the date indicated in the deed of appointment or, in the absence thereof, immediately upon their appointment.
- (8) The Government is considered formed upon appointment of the ministers.
- (9) Members of the Government shall take an oath before the Parliament.

Article 17

- (1) The ministries shall be listed in an act of Parliament.
- (2) Ministers without portfolio may be appointed to perform specific tasks determined by the Government.
- (3) The Budapest and county government offices shall function as the public administration bodies of the Government of territorial jurisdiction.
- (4) The provisions of an implementing act regarding the designation of ministries, ministers or administrative bodies may be amended by an act of Parliament.
- (5) The legal status of government officials shall be governed by act of Parliament.

Article 18

- (1) The Prime Minister shall define the general policy of the Government.
- (2) The minister shall - within the framework of the general policy of the Government - autonomously run the sectors assigned under his or her competence, including the subordinate bodies, and perform the tasks assigned by the Government or the Prime Minister.
- (3) Members of the Government shall have authority to issue decrees under authorization by an act or government decree, in the performance of their respective duties, at their own discretion or in agreement with another minister. Such decrees, however, may not be contradictory to any act or government decree, or any decree of the Governor of Magyar Nemzeti Bank.
- (4) Members of the Government shall give account of their activities to Parliament, and ministers shall give account of their activities to the Prime Minister. Members of the Government may participate in and take the floor at sessions of the Parliament. The Parliament or a parliamentary committee may order any Member of the Government to appear at its session.
- (5) The detailed provisions relating to the legal status of members of the Government, their remuneration as well as the rules regarding the substitution of ministers shall be laid down in an act of Parliament.

Article 19

Parliament may request information from the Government on its position to be represented in the decision-making procedures of those institutions of the European Union that require government participation, and may take a stand on the draft placed on the agenda. In the course of the decision-making process within the European Union, the Government shall represent the position taken by the Parliament.

Article 20

(1) The mandate of the Government shall terminate upon the termination of the Prime Minister's mandate.

(2) The Prime Minister's mandate shall terminate:

- a) upon inauguration of a newly-elected Parliament;
- b) if Parliament expresses lack of confidence in the Prime Minister and elects a new Prime Minister;
- c) if Parliament expresses lack of confidence in the Prime Minister in the course of a vote of confidence initiated by the Prime Minister;
- d) upon resignation;
- e) upon death;
- f) upon declaration of incompatibility;
- g) if the requirements for his or her election are no longer satisfied.

(3) A minister's mandate shall terminate:

- a) upon termination of the Prime Minister's mandate;
- b) upon resignation;
- c) upon dismissal;
- d) upon death.

(4) Parliament shall decide upon the declaration of non-compliance with the requirements for the Prime Minister's election and upon the declaration of incompatibility with a majority of two-thirds of the votes of the Members of Parliament present.

Article 21

(1) A motion of censure against the Prime Minister may be introduced in writing - along with the nomination of the candidate for the new Prime Minister - by no less than one-fifth of all Members of Parliament.

(2) If the Parliament supports the motion of censure, it thereby expresses its lack of confidence in the Prime Minister, and also elects the person nominated in the motion of censure for the office of Prime Minister. A simple majority of the votes cast by Members of Parliament shall be required for such decision.

(3) The Prime Minister may propose a vote of confidence. Parliament is considered to express its lack of confidence in the Prime Minister unless in the vote of confidence proposed by the Prime Minister the majority of Members of Parliament supports the Prime Minister's proposal.

(4) The Prime Minister may propose that the vote on a Government proposal be considered as a vote of confidence as well. If Parliament does not support the proposal submitted by the Government, the Parliament shall be regarded as having expressed lack of confidence in the Prime Minister.

(5) Parliament shall decide on the question of confidence between three to eight days from the time of submission of the motion of censure or of the Prime Minister's motion submitted pursuant to Paragraphs (3) and (4).

Article 22

(1) The Government, from the termination of its mandate until the formation of a new government, shall function as a caretaker government, however, it may not recognize the binding force of international treaties and may adopt decrees only in case of an urgency and on the basis of express authorization provided for by an act of Parliament.

(2) If the mandate of the Prime Minister is terminated upon his or her resignation, or upon the inauguration of a newly-elected Parliament, the Prime Minister shall serve as a caretaker prime minister until the new Prime Minister is elected, however, he or she may not propose the dismissal of a minister or the appointment of a new minister, and may issue a decree only in case of an urgency and on the basis of express authorization provided for by an act of Parliament.

(3) If the mandate of the Prime Minister has ended due to his or her death, due to incompatibility or to the absence of conditions required for his or her election, or due to the fact that the Parliament has expressed its lack of confidence in the Prime Minister in a vote of no confidence, the powers of the Prime Minister shall be exercised by a deputy prime minister until a new Prime Minister is elected, with the limitations provided for in Paragraph (2) hereof, or by the principal Deputy Prime Minister designated if there are more than one deputy prime ministers.

(4) A minister shall temporarily exercise his or her powers as a caretaker minister from the termination of the mandate of the Prime Minister until the appointment of a new minister, or until the appointment of another member of the new Government with the relevant ministerial powers, however, a caretaker minister may issue a decree only in case of an urgency.

Autonomous Regulatory Agencies

Article 23

(1) Parliament shall have authority to establish autonomous regulatory agencies in an implementing act for carrying out certain tasks and exercising certain competencies of the executive branch.

(2) The heads of autonomous regulatory agencies shall be appointed by the Prime Minister, or by the President of the Republic on a recommendation by the Prime Minister, for a period specified by an implementing act. The heads of autonomous regulatory agencies shall appoint their deputy or deputies.

(3) The heads of autonomous regulatory agencies shall report annually to Parliament on their activities.

(4) As provided for by an act of Parliament, the heads of autonomous regulatory agencies shall have powers to issue decrees under authorization conferred by an implementing act, and such decrees may not be contradictory to any act of Parliament, a Government decree, a decree of the Prime Minister, any ministerial decree or a decree of the Governor of Magyar Nemzeti Bank. In issuing a decree, the heads of autonomous regulatory agencies may be substituted by the deputy they have designated by means of a decree.

The Constitutional Court

Article 24

(1) The Constitutional Court shall be the supreme organ for the protection of the Fundamental Law.

(2) The competence of the Constitutional Court includes:

a) the ex ante examination of the constitutionality of acts of Parliament adopted but not yet promulgated;

Article 36

(1) Parliament shall adopt an act on the central budget for each calendar year and on the implementation of the central budget. The Government shall present the bill on the central budget and the bill on the implementation of the central budget to Parliament within the time limit prescribed by law.

(2) The bill on the central budget and the bill on the implementation of the central budget shall contain all state expenditures and revenues in an identical format, in a transparent manner and in reasonable detail.

(3) Passing the act on the central budget shall also constitute the Parliament's authorization to the Government to collect the revenues and make the expenditures specified therein.

(4) Parliament may not pass an act on the central budget in consequence of which the government debt would exceed half of the gross domestic product.

(5) Insofar as the level of government debt exceeds half of the gross domestic product, Parliament may only adopt an act on the central budget which envisages a decrease of the government debt relative to the gross domestic product.

(6) Any derogation from the provisions contained in Paragraphs (4) and (5) is permitted only during a special legal order and to the extent necessary to mitigate the consequences of circumstances triggering the special legal order, or, in the event of a significant and lasting national economic recession, to the extent necessary to restore the balance of the national economy.

(7) If the Parliament has not adopted the act on the central budget by the beginning of the calendar year, the Government shall be authorized to collect the revenues determined in the relevant legislation and, within the framework of the appropriations set out in the act on the central budget for the previous year, make the expenditures as commensurate.

Article 37

(1) The Government shall implement the central budget lawfully and efficiently, under the principle of prudence and transparency.

(2) In the implementation of the central budget, the Government may not - with the exceptions specified in Paragraph (6) of Article 36 - commit to a loan or undertake any financial obligations in consequence of which the government debt would exceed half of the gross domestic product.

(3) Insofar as the level of government debt exceeds half of the gross domestic product, in the implementation of the central budget, the Government may not - with the exceptions specified in Paragraph (6) of Article 36 - commit to a loan or undertake any financial obligations in consequence of which the government debt relative to the gross domestic product would increase compared to that of the previous year.

(4) Insofar as the level of government debt exceeds half of the gross domestic product, the Constitutional Court shall - within its competence under Points b)-e) of Paragraph (2) of Article 24 - have powers to review laws on the central budget, the implementation of the central budget, central tax revenues, duties and contributions, customs duties, and on the central government conditions for local taxes for conformity with the Fundamental Law solely as pertaining to inherent rights to life and human dignity, the right to the protection of personal data, the right to freedom of thought, freedom of conscience and freedom of religion, or the rights in connection with Hungarian citizenship, and may annul such laws only in the case of any infringement of these rights. The Constitutional Court shall have powers to annul the aforementioned laws unconditionally, if the formalities and procedures laid down by the Fundamental Law concerning the adoption and publication of those laws are not satisfied.

(5)⁸⁵ As regards those statutory provisions which entered into force during the period when government debt exceeded half of the gross domestic product, Paragraph (4) shall remain to apply to such period when the government debt no longer exceeds half of the gross domestic product.

(6)⁸⁶ The procedures for calculating the level of government debt and the gross domestic product, and the rules for the implementation of Article 36 and Paragraphs (1)-(3) hereof shall be laid down by law.

Article 38

(1) The property of the Hungarian State and of municipal governments shall be considered national assets. National assets shall be managed and protected for the purpose of serving the public interest, satisfying common needs and preserving natural resources, taking also into account the needs of future generations. The requirements for safeguarding and protecting national assets, and for the prudent management thereof, shall be laid down in an implementing act.

(2) The scope of exclusive ownership and economic activity deemed to be the sole domain of the State, as well as the limits and conditions for the alienation of national assets of special import for national economy considerations shall be defined by an implementing act with regard to the objectives referred to in Paragraph (1).

(3) National assets may be transferred only for purposes specified by law, with the exceptions defined by law, taking costs and benefits into account.

(4) Contracts for the transfer or utilization of national assets may only be concluded with an organization that is able to satisfy the requirement of transparency in terms of ownership structure, organization, and the activities relating to the management of the alienated or utilized national assets.

(5) Economic operators owned by the State or municipal governments shall conduct business prudently and independently, in accordance with the relevant legislation, under the requirements of legality, efficiency and effectiveness.

Article 39

(1) Subsidies, or payments under contract, may be provided from the central budget only to an operator who is able to satisfy the requirement of transparency in terms of ownership structure, organization, and the activities for which aid is provided.

(2) Every organization managing public funds shall publicly account for the management of those funds. Public funds and national assets shall be managed according to the principles of transparency and of corruption-free public life. Data relating to public funds or to national assets shall be recognized as data of public interest.

Article 40

The basic rules concerning the bearing of public burdens and the social security pension system shall be laid down by an implementing act in order to make calculable contributions to common needs and to ascertain benefits for security and quality of life for the elderly.

SPECIAL LEGAL ORDER

⁹⁴ Established by Article 9 of Seventh Amendment of the Fundamental Law of Hungary, effective as of 29 June 2018.

Common Provisions Relating to a State of National Crisis and a State of Emergency

Article 48

(1) Parliament shall:

a) declare a state of national crisis and set up a National Defense Council in the event of the declaration of a state of war or the immediate danger of an armed intrusion by a foreign power (danger of war);

b) declare a state of emergency in the event of armed actions aimed at undermining law and order or at seizing exclusive control of power, or in the event of grave acts of violence committed by force of arms or by armed groups which gravely endanger the lives and property of citizens on a mass scale.

(2) The declaration of war, the conclusion of a peace treaty, or the declaration of a special legal order under Paragraph (1) shall be subject to a majority of two-thirds of the votes of all Members of Parliament.

(3) If the Parliament is prevented from taking these decisions, the President of the Republic shall have the right to declare a state of war, to declare a state of national crisis and set up the Defense Council, or to declare a state of emergency.

(4) Parliament shall be deemed incapable of taking such decisions if it is not in session and convening it is impossible due to insurmountable obstacles caused by lack of time or the events responsible for the declaration of the state of war, state of national crisis or state of emergency.

(5) The Speaker of Parliament, the President of the Constitutional Court and the Prime Minister shall jointly determine whether the Parliament is incapable of acting, and whether the declaration of a state of war, a state of national crisis or a state of emergency is justified.

(6) At its first session after the cause of obstruction is abolished, Parliament shall review the justification of the declaration of a state of war, state of national crisis or state of emergency, and shall rule on the legality of the measures taken. A majority of two-thirds of the votes of all Members of Parliament shall be required for this decision.

(7) During a state of national crisis or a state of emergency Parliament shall neither declare its dissolution nor be dissolved. During a state of national crisis or a state of emergency general elections for Members of Parliament may not be scheduled and may not be held; in such cases a new Parliament shall be elected within ninety days from the time of termination of the state of national crisis or state of emergency. If the general elections for Members of Parliament have already been held but the new Parliament has not yet been formed, the President of the Republic shall convene the constitutive sitting for a date within thirty days from the termination of the state of national crisis or state of emergency.

(8) If the Parliament has dissolved itself or has been dissolved, it may be convened also by the Defense Council during a state of national crisis, or by the President of the Republic during a state of emergency.

State of National Crisis

Article 49

(1) The National Defense Council is chaired by the President of the Republic, and is composed of the Speaker of Parliament, the floor leaders of the political parties represented in Parliament, the Prime Minister, the ministers, and - in an advisory capacity - the Chief of Staff of the Hungarian Armed Forces.

(2) The Defense Council shall exercise:

a) the powers conferred upon it by Parliament;

b) the powers of the President of the Republic;

c) the powers of the Government.

(3) The National Defense Council shall decide:

a) on the use of the Hungarian Armed Forces abroad and within Hungary, the participation of the Hungarian Armed Forces in peace-keeping missions, humanitarian operations in foreign theaters, and the stationing of armed forces in a foreign country;

b) on the deployment of foreign armed units within or staging operations from the territory of,

Hungary, or on the stationing of foreign armed units in Hungary;

c) on the introduction of emergency measures as defined in an implementing act.

(4) The National Defense Council may issue decrees empowered - under an implementing act - to suspend the application of certain laws or derogating from the provisions of laws, and to take other extraordinary measures.

(5) Upon the termination of the state of national crisis, the decrees of the National Defense Council shall cease to have effect unless Parliament extends their effect.

State of Emergency

Article 50

(1) The Hungarian Armed Forces may be used during a state of emergency if the Police and the National Security Services are unable to handle the situation at hand.

(2) During a state of emergency, if the Parliament is prevented from acting, the President of the Republic shall decide on the use of the Hungarian Armed Forces under Paragraph (1).

(3) During a state of emergency, the extraordinary measures defined by an implementing act shall be introduced by the President of the Republic by means of a decree. In such decree, the President of the Republic may suspend the application of certain laws, derogate from provisions of laws, or take additional emergency measures.

(4) The President of the Republic shall immediately inform the Speaker of Parliament of any emergency measures that have been introduced. During a state of emergency, the Parliament - or if it is prevented from acting, the Standing Defense Committee of Parliament - shall remain continuously in session. The Parliament - or if it is prevented from acting, the Standing Defense Committee of Parliament - shall have powers to suspend application of the emergency measures introduced by the President of the Republic.

(5) Emergency measures introduced by way of decree shall remain in force for a period of thirty days, unless their effect is extended by Parliament or, if it is unable to act, by the Standing Defense Committee of the Parliament.

(6) Upon termination of the state of emergency, the decree of the President of the Republic shall cease to have effect.

State of Preventive Defense

Article 51

(1) In the event of an imminent threat of armed invasion or if deemed necessary in connection with the country's commitment under an alliance treaty, Parliament shall declare a state of preventive defense and simultaneously authorize the Government to introduce the emergency measures specified in an implementing act. The duration of the state of preventive defense may be extended.

(2) The declaration or extension of the special legal order under Paragraph (1) shall be subject to a majority of two-thirds of the votes of the Members of Parliament present.

(3) After having put forward a motion for a state of preventive defense, the Government shall have power to introduce measures by way of derogation from the acts governing the administrative system and the operation of the Hungarian Armed Forces and the law enforcement agencies, and shall keep the President of the Republic and the competent standing committees of Parliament informed thereof on an ongoing basis. Such measures shall remain in force until Parliament's decision on the declaration of a state of preventive defense, in any case for no longer than sixty days.

(4) During a state of preventive defense the Government may issue decrees empowered - under an implementing act - to suspend the application of certain laws or derogating from the provisions of laws, and to take other extraordinary measures.

(5) Upon termination of the state of preventive defense, the decree of the Government shall cease to have effect.

Article 51/A⁹⁵

(1) In the event of a major and imminent threat of terrorist attacks, or following a terrorist attack, Parliament shall declare a state of emergency response to terrorism and simultaneously authorize the Government to introduce the emergency measures specified in a cardinal law. The duration of the state of emergency response to terrorism may be extended.

(2) The declaration, or extension, of a special legal order under Paragraph (1) shall be subject to a majority of two-thirds of the votes of Members of Parliament in attendance.

(3) After having put forward a motion for declaring a state of emergency response to terrorism, the Government shall have power to introduce measures by way of derogation from the acts governing the administrative system and the operation of the Hungarian Armed Forces, law enforcement agencies and national security services, including measures laid down by cardinal law, and shall keep the President of the Republic and the competent standing committees of Parliament informed thereof on an ongoing basis. Such measures shall remain in force until Parliament's decision on the declaration of a state of emergency response to terrorism, in any case for no longer than fifteen days.

(4) During a state of emergency response to terrorism the Government may issue decrees empowered - under cardinal law - to suspend the application of certain laws or derogating from the provisions of laws, and to take other extraordinary measures.

(5) The Hungarian Armed Forces may be used during any period covered by the measures referred to in Subsection (3) and during a state of emergency response to terrorism if the Police and the national security services are unable to control the situation at hand.

(6) Upon termination of the state of emergency response to terrorism, the decree of the Government shall cease to have effect.

Emergency Response to Terrorism⁹⁶

Article 51/A⁹⁷

(1) In the event of a major and imminent threat of terrorist attacks, or following a terrorist attack, Parliament shall declare a state of emergency response to terrorism and simultaneously authorize the Government to introduce the emergency measures specified in a cardinal law. The duration of the state of emergency response to terrorism may be extended.

(2) The declaration, or extension, of a special legal order under Paragraph (1) shall be subject to a majority of two-thirds of the votes of Members of Parliament in attendance.

(3) After having put forward a motion for declaring a state of emergency response to terrorism, the Government shall have power to introduce measures by way of derogation from the acts governing the administrative system and the operation of the Hungarian Armed Forces, law enforcement agencies and national security services, including measures laid down by cardinal law, and shall keep the President of the Republic and the competent standing committees of Parliament informed thereof on an ongoing basis. Such measures shall remain in force until Parliament's decision on the declaration of a state of emergency response to terrorism, in any case for no longer than fifteen days.

(4) During a state of emergency response to terrorism the Government may issue decrees empowered - under cardinal law - to suspend the application of certain laws or derogating from the provisions of laws, and to take other extraordinary measures.

(5) The Hungarian Armed Forces may be used during any period covered by the measures referred to in Subsection (3) and during a state of emergency response to terrorism if the Police and the national security services are unable to control the situation at hand.

(6) Upon termination of the state of emergency response to terrorism, the decree of the Government shall cease to have effect.
